

"My wife and I recommend Dr. Miles' Nervine for Fits"

and spasms. We have a boy who is nine years old now, and has had spasms since he was two years old. We had tried everything we knew and also took him to different doctors who said it would only be a short time until these fits would kill him. They would not allow him to go to school; finally my wife commenced to give him.

Dr. Miles' Nervine

Now he seems completely cured and goes to school regularly and has not had a spasm for months.

Spasms, fits, convulsions, St. Vitus dance and epilepsy frequently afflict children. If you have a child suffering from any of these diseases do not hesitate to give Dr. Miles' Nervine a trial.

Sold under a guarantee assuring the return of the price of the first bottle if it fails to benefit. At all druggists.

CAUSE OF COLD SNAP.

It has probably been stated in the Chronicle, and ought to be taught in every school house, that the sole cause of wind is the difference in temperature at different places, and colder air flowing into warmer places to equalize it. The warmer air has expanded until it is thinner and lighter. It rises up and colder air flows in to fill the space. It is never empty.

This year we had a very warm September. The U. S. daily weather maps showed that all that time there was a very cold section in Montana and Idaho. On Thursday last, at 3 p. m., a few scattered and very high clouds were moving steadily and rapidly from that direction. The remark then made, "If this wind continues we will have a very cold spell," was not guess work, but founded on facts. It did continue. It got down to 30 degrees. A few, who knew of its coming, saved their tender vegetables and were fully prepared. In these snaps the greater the difference in temperature, the longer the wind continues, and the greater the change. Our altitude makes us subject to them every fall.

EARLY RIVAL OF NEW YORK

Eastern Metropolis of the United States Might Have Been in Staten Island.

We are reminded that New York came mighty near being on Staten Island by the announcement that the famous Cubberly cottage, with all its furnishings, has been donated to the public by its owner, Dr. Nathaniel Britton. The structure is one of the finest examples of the so-called "colonial" architecture extant, and it is in an excellent state of preservation. It has been satisfactorily determined that it was built not later than 1680, and most of its furnishings antedate that year. It was in all probability a finer rural residence at the time of its completion than any on Manhattan Island. Now it stands at the intersection of New Dorp lane and Cedar Grove avenue. At the time when the builders put on the last coat of paint and told the Cubberlys to move in it was surrounded by tributary acres constituting a splendid estate, and the Dutch aristocrats of New Amsterdam, across the upper bay, followed the example of the original Cubberly promptly in establishing themselves upon the salubrious and picturesque hills of Staten Island. The Cubberly cottage was but the pioneer among many. In fact, as historical records show, the new settlement on Staten Island grew so rapidly at that time that some people thought it might outgrow New Amsterdam. The Cubberly cottage came into the possession of the Brittons in the year 1695, when it was deeded to Nathaniel Britton, an ancestor of the owner who has given it to the public as a historical relic. The cottage, with all its contents, will be kept open to the public under the charge of the Staten Island Association of Arts and Science.

HARKING BACK TO NATURE

Few There Are Without Strong Feeling of Kinship With the Things of the Wild.

A bond from which we are never free unites us to mother earth. The appeal of the refinements of civilization is strong; they are needed and they have become an integral part of our life, but somewhere in our nature is something that always harks back to nature.

This feeling of close kinship with wild things, the stream, the birds and animals, the woods, gives strength to the soul. Were we to live always on the artificial heights, we should become enervated. For the earth is our home; from the actual physical earth we gain strength of body and mind. From considering it, we learn lessons of truth and purity and order, and the foundations of beauty are all found in the material world. Our love of nature, our longing sometimes to get out into the wilds comes, though we may never realize it, from our need of these things.

With all our refinements, we shall never do so well without the knowledge of the kindly earth as with it. Even in winter there is much to learn, much to enjoy, and we lose much when we think we can do without our close communion with the mother of us all.

Gift of the Gods.

A meat packer's wagon rattled over the cobblestones down First avenue, says the New York Evening Post. Overhead roared an elevated train and in the sunshine on the curb sat five boys, shooting craps.

Suddenly one of them darted out into the street, swung himself up on the passing wagon, seized a ham, and jumped off—into the arms of a "white wing."

This agent of the city, after appropriating the ham, gave the boy a vigorous shaking and flung him toward the sidewalk.

Immediately all five boys vanished into the earth.

The "white wing" looked down the street and the wagon had disappeared as completely as the boys, with the driver quite unconscious of any unusual stir.

He looked in every direction, then doubtless thanking the gods for their gift, he wrapped the ham in a newspaper and he, too, disappeared down a side street.

Background for Pictures.

A plain paper or one with quiet self-tone pattern is the only kind that makes a successful background for pictures. The soft neutral tone of cartridge paper is a splendid setting for ornaments and pictures, while soft brown is a safe choice of paper for the average room, as against it almost any picture, be it oil painting, water color, portrait, etching or photograph, appears to advantage. Gray is also a good and restful color to live with. A happy and popular combination is the gray wall covering with white woodwork. It is an admirable idea for the city apartment, where there is none too much light.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Hembree are the happy parents of a baby girl since Sunday.

Just before the severe frosts of Sunday morning Clerk and Master C. G. Black cut a field of corn that had been grown since the first of June. Owing to the unusually wet fall the corn had staid green much longer than commonly and as a result the fodder was probably considerably damaged. The corn was sufficiently mature to escape with little damage. Such corn as Mr. Black grew is rarely seen in this state or elsewhere. By careful and scientific methods in handling the soil Mr. Black had not only brought the field to a high state of tilth, but had also built up the fertility of the soil by turning under green crops until his farm is not surpassed by any in the county, if equalled.

J. A. Hodgins was here last week from Kouts, Indiana, looking after land interests of other parties. He attended our county fair and was much surprised at the splendid display of farm products shown. The thing that surprised Mr. Hodgins most is the very low price asked for land here. He thought $8.00 and $10. an acre ridiculous, considering what the people here can grow. He states that he might become personally interested in property here in the near future.

Friday and Saturday mornings saw the first frost of the season that did any special damage to vegetation. Sunday morning brought such a frost that most vegetation was killed. Some crops were damaged.

At the morning service Sunday Rev. Dr. F. T. Lee, of Atlanta, gave a lecture on the book of Esther, which was richly enjoyed by all who heard it. He rehearsed the history of Esther and the events connected therewith and showed by a map what was comprised in the Persian empire at the time. The talk was very interesting and instructive and was especially interesting to those present who are members of the Eastern Star as he elucidated a part of that work in a way that added new interest to it. Dr. Lee is at Pleasant Hill this week giving his lectures to the students of Pleasant Hill academy and the citizens of that section.
